Greenwich Land Trust Holds a Lecture on Native Plant Gardens

On Monday, April 7 at 7:00PM, The New York Botanical Garden's Brian Sullivan will discuss the newly opened Native Plant Garden. The beautiful 3.5 acre garden showcases plant species native to the region in an innovative New American style, transporting visitors through a variety of local microclimates. The story of the garden's design and installation will inspire home gardeners and introduce a palette of beautiful plants compatible with local landscapes. Join us at the Greenwich Library meeting room for this informative talk.

Light refreshments will be served and participants will be given native plant transplants to take home to their own gardens.
